What is C.A.?

Cocaine Anonymous (C.A.) is a fellowship of people who share their experience, strength, and hope with one another so they can recover from addiction and help others find the same freedom.

Our members come from every background, age, culture, profession, and belief system. What brings us together is not where we've come from, but our shared experience of addiction and our desire to live free from cocaine and all other mind-altering substances.

Through online meetings, recovery is available wherever you have an internet connection. Whether you're at home, travelling, living in a remote area, managing illness, or simply taking your first step in recovery, you can connect with recovering addicts who understand - Online meetings provide a safe, welcoming place to listen, share, and begin building a network of recovery with people from across the country and around the world.

The only requirement for membership is a desire to stop using cocaine and all other mind-altering substances - Everyone seeking recovery is welcome.

There are no dues or fees for membership. Cocaine Anonymous is fully self-supporting through the voluntary contributions of its members. Newcomers are never expected to contribute.

Our programme is spiritual rather than religious. Every member is free to develop their own understanding of a Higher Power, and no particular belief or faith is required to participate.

As a Fellowship, Cocaine Anonymous does not express opinions on outside issues, allowing us to remain focused on our primary purpose and our primary purpose is simple -carry the message of recovery to the addict who still suffers.

Everything we do - from online meetings and sponsorship to service and fellowship - is centred on carrying that message of recovery to the addict who still suffers.

Recovery in Cocaine Anonymous is based on the Twelve Steps, adapted with permission from Alcoholics Anonymous. For millions of people around the world, the Twelve-Step programme has provided a practical path to lasting recovery.

Whether you attend meetings online or in person, the Steps offer a framework for personal growth, healing, and a new way of life. Members work the Steps with the support of a sponsor and the Fellowship, discovering that recovery is possible one day at a time.
